ITEM 5. OTHER EVENTS

Quanta issued on July 11, 2000, a press release, a copy of which is attached as an exhibit to this Form 8-K, announcing it had completed the acquisition of seven companies that are expected to produce annualized revenues of approximately $140 million in 2000. These acquisitions consist of both platform companies and smaller "tuck-in" companies that will be integrated into existing operating units. All of the acquisitions were accounted for under the purchase method of accounting.

The companies Quanta acquired include:

- o IRBY Construction Company, Quanta's largest acquisition to date. IRBY, based in Jackson, Mississippi, is an electric power service provider that has diversified into fiber optic and wireless telecommunications nationwide;
- o Kuenzi Construction, Inc., based in Silverton, Oregon, which provides directional boring for communications conduit;
- o dot 05 Optical Communications, Inc., a fiber optic engineering, splicing and testing service provider based in Billerica, Massachusetts;
- o Marlboro Cablevision Constructors, Inc., based in Bennettsville, South Carolina, which provides aerial and underground services for the cable television industry;
- o NetCom Management Group, Inc., based in Albuquerque, New Mexico, which provides fiber optic services, including engineering, design, and installation, in addition to commercial data wiring and cabling;
- o Great Western Enterprises, Inc., based in Billings, Montana, which provides directional boring services for fiber optic and utility line installations and repairs; and
- o Tjader & Highstromm Inc., a provider of directional boring and installation services for the telecommunications and cable industries based in New Richmond, Wisconsin.

QUANTA SERVICES ACQUIRES SEVEN COMPANIES WITH COMBINED ESTIMATED REVENUES OF $140 MILLION

JULY 11, 2000 - Houston, Texas - Quanta Services, Inc. (NYSE:PWR) announced today that it has completed the acquisition of seven companies that are expected to produce annualized revenues of approximately $140 million in 2000. These acquisitions consist of both platform companies and smaller "tuck-in" companies that will be integrated into existing operating units. All of the acquisitions were accounted for under the purchase method of accounting.

"We are pleased to announce that we have added seven high quality service providers into the Quanta family of companies," stated John Colson, Quanta Services' Chief Executive Officer. "The largest of the seven companies acquired, IRBY Construction Company, represents Quanta's largest acquisition to date. IRBY, based in Jackson, Mississippi, is a premiere electric power service provider that has diversified into fiber optic and wireless telecommunications nationwide. The remaining six companies acquired continue the expansion of our cable television, telecommunications and directional boring capabilities. We continue to capitalize on the strong and growing demand for specialty services created by the increasing need for bandwidth, deregulation, outsourcing and convergence in the industries we serve."

In addition to IRBY, the companies Quanta acquired include: Kuenzi Construction, Inc., based in Silverton, Oregon, which provides directional boring for communications conduit; dot 05 Optical Communications, Inc., a fiber optic engineering, splicing and testing service provider based in Billerica, Massachusetts; Marlboro Cablevision Constructors, Inc., based in Bennettsville, South Carolina, which provides aerial and underground services for the cable television industry; NetCom Management Group, Inc., based in Albuquerque, New Mexico, which provides fiber optic services, including engineering, design, and installation, in addition to commercial data wiring and cabling; Great Western Enterprises, Inc., based in Billings, Montana, which provides directional boring services for fiber optic and utility line installations and repairs; and Tjader & Highstrom Inc., a provider of directional boring and installation services for the telecommunications and cable industries based in New Richmond, Wisconsin.
